"Why Women Cannot Sleep."

The highly organized, finely-strung nervous system of women subjects them to terrors of nervous apprehension which no man can ever appreciate. The peace of mind, the mental poise and calmness under difficulties, which is necessary for happy womanhood is only possible when the sensitive feminine organism is in a perfectly healthy condition. If there be any weakness or derangement in this respect, no remedy in the world so completely restores womanly health, nervous vigor and capability as the wonderful "Favorite Prescription" invented by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y. It purifies, heals and strengthens, insures functional regularity, provides physical reinforcement and sustaining power at periods of special weakness and depression.

It is the only medicine which makes the coming of baby safe and comparatively easy. In a personal letter to Dr. Pierce, Mrs. Marguerite Collin, of Cutler, Algoma Co., Ont., says: "I was a sufferer and was cured by Dr. Pierce's wonderful medicine. When I conceived the medicine I could neither eat nor sleep. My hands and feet were constantly cold; I had a wasting troublesome drain for three months and my monthly periods were never regular. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it cured me. I feel like a new woman. The World's Dispensary Medical Association."

SHOOTING OUT THE LIGHTS.

An Occasion When the Old Ranchman Saw the Trick Done.

"According to western stories," said a former ranchman, "one of the favorite amusements of frontier desperadoes is 'shooting out the lights.' I never saw it done but once, but the incident made sufficient impression on my mind to last me for life. It was at Benton, a small camp on the old 'Stake Plain' trail, in northeastern New Mexico. I was staying there over night with a couple of cattlemen, and we naturally gravitated to the only resort in town, a sort of combination of bar and gambling house, in a rough one-story building, containing a good sized single room.

"The bar was on one side, and on the other were two or three 'Mexican monte' tables, over each of which were several large coal oil lamps in wall brackets. In the center of the place was a chandelier containing three more, altogether giving a good deal of light. We were sitting at one side smoking and talking, when in rushed half a dozen drunken cowboys, headed by a well known ranchman named Bill Wells.

"The crowd were out for excitement and didn't care how they got it. They took several drinks and then clustered around one of the monte tables. In a few moments Wells insisted upon making a bet over the limit, to which the dealer objected. 'If you don't turn for that bet, I'll shoot out your blankety blank lights!' bawled the ranchman. 'The leemitz ez feety dollar,' said the Mexican dealer, and the words were no sooner out of his mouth than Wells and his gang pulled their six shooters and began blazing away at the lamps. 'About 25 or 30 shots were fired, and almost at the outset the place was in complete darkness. Of course there was a stampede, but I remember being surprised that I had heard no crash of glass. Half an hour later I went back and found the place lit up as brightly as ever, Wells and his cowboys having been taken away by friends. The roof was full of holes, but not a single lamp had been hit. What had put them out was the concussion of the shots in a confined space.'—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

An Unsought Pardon.

Among the stories of that former governor of Texas familiarly known as Sam Houston is more than one amusing tale.

There was a financial agent of the penitentiary who had warmly opposed the election of Governor Houston, but was particularly anxious to retain his own pleasantly lucrative position. Consequently the governor was soon in receipt of a petition in which the man's years of faithful service and special qualifications for the place were set forth in glowing terms by himself.

"The governor sent for him and said gravely, 'It appears from this petition that you have been in the penitentiary eight years.'

"I have," was the reply.

"And during that time you have performed faithfully every duty that has come in your way to the best of your ability?"

"I have," answered the agent, his courage swiftly rising.

"Then, sir," said the governor, with the air of one conferring a priceless favor, "I pardon you out!"—Youth's Companion.

Just In Time.

"Hello! Is that Mr. Highmus' residence?"

"Yes."

"Is that you, Fanny?"

"Yes."

"Are you alone?"

"Yes."

"So am I. Everybody else at the office has gone. I want to talk to you a little. Dan?"

"Sh! Don't you know the girl at the central office is listening?"

"Darkness. I was going to say, may come on before I get around this evening. It's a nice day, isn't it? Well, goodby."—Chicago Tribune.

Wedding the Oceans.

It is a remarkable fact that water which flows naturally into the gulf of California and thence into the Pacific ocean has been virtually lifted across the backbone of the Rocky mountains, and now, after being used for irrigation, finds its way to the gulf of Mexico. A number of small streams on the other side of Long's peak, which flow into Grand lake and thence into the Colorado river, have been diverted by a ditch that finds its way through a pass 10,000 feet high into the head waters of the Poudre. Some 400 cubic feet per second has thus been diverted from the Pacific to the Atlantic slope, where water is used for irrigating additional farms in Larimer county. It is not strictly correct to say that this water has been lifted across the range. But a feat of sinuous engineering has diverted it, which amounts to the same thing.—Denver Republican.

It Was a Great Shot.

There is a man who when the stars are out above rigs up a telescope at the corner of a certain street in S—, wherewith to study astronomy at sixpence a squint. One night as he was getting under way two Irish "gentlemen" were seen to be taking an observation of his movements.

"Jemmy," said one, "what in the wuruld is you fellow afther with his machinery?"

"What, ye spalpeen," whispered the other, "shure an can't ye see that it's an alrgun cannon he's got? He's afther shootin stars, he is."

"Hadn't ye better be gittin out iv the way thin?" inquired his friend.

"Shure an it's no use," was the answer. "Didn't ye ever hear of shootin stars?"

By this time the telescope man had arranged his instrument and squinted through it up at the heavens. The Irishmen looked likewise in wonder. Just then, by an odd chance, a large meteor shot down the sky.

"Bedad, he hit it! He's fetched it down!" cried both Irishmen in a breath. "Shure an that's the greatest shootin I iver saw in my life!"—London Telegraph.

Rough on the Reporter.

The late Sir John Macdonald once gave orders to the leading Ottawa paper that his speeches were always to be reported verbatim, as he prided himself on the perfection of his extempore style. But on one occasion, when he spoke after dining generously, the reporter's notes turned out so incoherent that the editor took fright and sent the young man to get Sir John's own revision of his remarks. That statesman gravely corrected the reporter's literal transcript of what he had said and as gravely said to him on taking leave: "Young man, let me give you a piece of advice, of which I fear you stand in need. Never touch liquor."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Escaped It.

"What is it? An amateur concert?" "Yes, but it is to be given by the best talent in the neighborhood, and it's for charity."

"How much are the tickets?" "Fifty cents. You ought to buy a couple of them and go."

"I think I'd rather buy four of them and not go. Here's your money."—Chicago Tribune.

Reflection on the Father.

"See here, Molke," said an aged Irish citizen to his grown son, "OI be afther hearin this mornin that yez broke up th' meetin at th' hall ins' noight an carried on with a high hand. Th' nex' thing ye know, yez'll be draggin ye ol' father's name into yer scrapes by causin people to say that yez're chip offen th' ol' block."—Ohio State Journal.

What a busy world this would be if it only were as fascinating to beat a carpet as it is to beat a slot machine.—Detroit Journal.

DREAMLAND.

I heard him laugh in his sleep last night,
I heard him laugh in his sleep,
And softly up to his bed I crept,
As softly as I could creep.

And I bent above him as he lay,
I bent and whispered low,
"O beautiful dreams that to childhood come,
I, too, your joys would know!"

And I listened as soft he laughed again,
I listened, and then I sighed.
I wondered where he was wandering
While Dreamland's gates stood wide.

For I could not follow where he went,
For my wings had been clipped by care,
And only those who can soar on high
May enter sweet Dreamland fair.

But I could patiently watch and wait
And love him as there he lay,
For Dreamland's wonders he'd tell to me
When back he came with the day.

So I was glad when he laughed in his sleep,
Was glad, and I knew no pain,
For, led by the hand of my laughing boy,
Dreamland was my own again.
—Morning Guide.

Didn't Fool the "Shadow."

Inspector Conquest tells many entertaining anecdotes of his relations with Mr. Gladstone, whom he was specially told off to "shadow" during the troublous times of 1881. The premier, who, as is well known, chafed under the vigilant supervision to which he was subjected, was fertile in expedients to get rid of the detective. Upon one occasion he attempted a particularly ingenious ruse. Entering a club, of which he was a member, he persuaded a friend of about his own build to walk out wearing his unmistakable hat and overcoat and carrying his umbrella. Mr. Gladstone hoped, of course, that his unwelcome attendant might be misled in the dusk of an autumn evening and thus allow an opportunity to escape.

The astute detective saw the familiar garments leaving the club, but was not deceived as to the identity of their wearer. Gait is one of the most difficult things in the world to imitate, and Mr. Gladstone's was intensely characteristic. Inspector Conquest simply walked up to the wearer of borrowed plumes, administered his most professional tap on the shoulder and said, "I believe, sir, you have just left that club with another gentleman's property in your possession?" Mr. Gladstone never attempted to elude his "shadow" after that.—London Chronicle.

Why We Begin With Soup.

The rationale of the initial soup has often been discussed. Some regard it as calculated to diminish digestive power on the theory that so much fluid taken at first dilutes the gastric juices. But there appears to be no foundation for this belief. A clear soup disappears almost immediately after entering the stomach and in no way interferes with gastric juice, which is stored in its appropriate cells ready for action. The habit of commencing dinner with soup has without doubt its origin in the fact that aliment in this fluid form—in fact, already digested—soon enters the blood and rapidly refreshes the hungry man, who, after a considerable fast and much activity, sits down with a sense of exhaustion to commence his principal meal.

In two or three minutes after he has taken a plate of good warm soup the feeling of exhaustion disappears, and irritability gives way to a gradual rising sense of good fellowship with the circle. The soup introduces at once into the system a small installment of ready digested food and saves the short period of time which must be spent by the stomach in deriving some nutriment from solid aliment, as well as indirectly strengthening the organ of digestion itself for its forthcoming duties.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Too Hard For Him.

A Frenchman at a certain hotel the other evening, who was boasting that he had thoroughly mastered the English language, was asked to write the following dictation:

"As Hugh Hughes was hewing a Yule log from a yew tree, a man, dressed in clothes of a dark hue, came up to Hugh and said, 'Have you seen my eyes?' 'If you will wait until I hew this I will go anywhere in Europe with you to look for your eyes.'"

EVOLUTION OF THE RACE.

Thinkers have worked to ascertain a cause for the degeneracy of the times in politics. Some of them have concluded that the race is in a state of transition, which conclusion does not fully present things as they are. It is given as an excuse for the villainy there is practiced in politics that the world is passing through an evolutionary process, which excuse is not sufficient to account for the impurity that seems to be everywhere present in political affairs.

Evolution has been upon the race from the beginning, and it will continue its force for all time. Progress is a fundamental principle of the great first cause. There is a continued change going forward in all things and the race is not an exception to the rule. The law of progress is upon us, and we cannot get away from its force, and such being the fact evolution is not a new thing.

What application the mischief that is going on in politics has to progress is not very plain to the mind, unless it is given the relation of an opposing force that is ever present in opposition to the good and humane principle at work in the race. Should we take the view that organized capital is an opposing force to the better work that is continually going forward, it would give a result that is not desirable. It may be ascertained from observation that the forces included in progress are more active at present than they have been at any time since the beguiler gave Mother Eve the apples, but that condition when admitted does not tend to prove that there is anything unusual at work in the line of progress which would justify a conclusion that the race is in a state of transition.

There is no such thing as states of transition of the race, as the progressive movement is a whole from the beginning to the end of the work.

We would like to aid the thinkers could we do so, in arriving at a reasonable and just conclusion upon the subject they are pleased to term a transition state. Progress represents a mixture of good and evil that operates upon each other and upon man, to the upbuilding of advanced and higher relations, after the manner of the work of fire and water as active agents in the development of the earth. These agents, which are opposites, acted upon each other and upon the earth, and continued their action till the final act as a result of all action appeared in the earth's beautiful form that is loved so much by the human family.

Upon the theory given it may be that the wickedness there is in politics is the evil side represented in a work that may conclude its final action in improvement, but the final process that may become necessary to develop the result should be the dreaded force so often recorded in the history of the race, which is bloodshed in the form of war, which has ever made its appearance at the close of all marked advances made by the race.

It should be hoped that the intelligence of the age will avert any such undesirable conclusion. Organized capital which largely controls the governments of the earth is the active factor in producing the evil so prominent in politics that the thinking evolutionists have concluded makes a transition of the race from one relation in its work to another, when in truth, all that can come out of the wickedness of the money power is an advance to a higher condition in life and the advance will chiefly consist in the overthrow of mammon which is and will be till overthrown the chief enemy to man. The evolution theory is brought forward as an apology for the work of mammon in politics, as its wickedness is generally admitted. It is ascertained that the money power is an opposing force to the humane and good there is at work to improve the future condition of the race, which should release us from further speculation upon the future, because it is ascertained that righteousness is a stronger force than evil.

While it is true that the better part in the race is superior to the evil there is in it, there is no escaping the fact, in a severe contest for the ascendancy, that the humane side may have to bring to its aid the righteous roar of cannon to bring Satan to his senses.

It would not be pleasant at this time to follow the wickedness of the money power to all of its legitimate conclusions upon the theory given as it would necessarily include some persons who are passing as servants of the Most High while they are engaged heart and soul in the service of mammon.

CUBAN ANNEXATION.

Cubans are in Washington talking over annexation matters. It is claimed that all the wealth of the island favors annexation believing that it will bring more speedily desired prosperity. The sugar interests of the island are not satisfactory to the owners of plantations, as the duty on sugar shipped to the United States is against the development of that industry, which would be free if Cuba was a part of this country.

There is not any reason in the relation sustained by Uncle Sam to the island against annexation, but all interests are in favor of it, for which reason one may as well conclude that Uncle Sam will when he leaves Cuba bring it home in his pocket.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

Late accounts are that a severe engagement took place at Ladysmith on November 9th. It is claimed all the Boer forces about the town were engaged. The attack made by the Boers included all parts of the town, which were repulsed as made. Many of the attacking force were killed and wounded. The British loss is not given in any form.

It is reported that the Boers are prepared to make a stubborn resistance to the forces marching to the relief of Ladysmith. Ten thousand men are in readiness to dispute the advance of the British.

A Fraternal Welcome.

Last evening the local Odd Fellows and Rebekahs formally greeted the four returning troopers who belong to the order of the three linked chain.

The reception was held in Investment hall. A program consisting of vocal and instrumental music and recitations was rendered. The following participated: Mrs. P. Jacobs, Misses Pringle, Lizette Hoskins, Inez Clark, May Curnow, Mildred Loeper, May Dunning, Shields Blum and May Brown, and Messrs. Peterson and Sedgwick.

A collation was served and the remainder of the evening was passed with games and conversation.

A Night of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought that she must soon die from pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of consumption. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her."

This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50 cents and $1. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

The Town Dads.

The County Commissioners will be in session today as town trustees. They will consider the proposition made by Mr. Coffey of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Company. The condition of the city's finances at present will not permit of purchasing the system but the town dads will probably lease it so that when the department moves into the new engine house, a modern accessory of a fire department will enable them to double their usefulness.

MINES AND MINING IN THIS STATE

Items Written and Clipped About Nevada's Leading Industry.

Cherry Creek is a lively camp these days.

The Glasgow & Western company expects to add twenty stamps to its mill.

The placers at Gold Creek, Elko county yielded $3,000 last season.

The Dexter company shipped out $16,000 in fine gold bars and cyanides Thursday morning—the result of two week's run.

The final payment has been made on the Exchange mine at Osceola and the deed delivered.

A one-half interest in the Bartell mine in Nye county has been sold and work resumed on the property.

In the past month Herman Scheel of Silver City has taken fourteen tons of ore from his mine which yielded him between $6,000 and $7,000.

An assayer in this State is required, by law to place a written description posted on or stamped upon every bar of bullion or amalgam melted, reorted, assayed, or refined by him.

Rapid Transit.

A noncommissioned officer attached to the Forty-ninth Regiment of colored volunteers which passed through Reno yesterday, said that in the past twenty-four hours his train had come just one hundred miles.

If this lightning speed is kept up till they reach San Francisco a number of officers will earn retirement by the age limit.

O. E. S. attention.

The officers and members of Adah Chapter No. 122 O. E. S., are requested to meet at the Episcopal Church Tuesday, Nov. 21st, at 2 o'clock, to attend the funeral of our late sister, Florence E. Layton. By order of the W. M. GRACE V. WARD, Secretary.

Annual Ball.

Myrtle Lodge, No. 20, Knights of Pythias, will hold their annual ball in Lonkey's hall, Verdi, on the evening of December 8th. There will be a fine orchestra present. This promises to be the social event of the season in Western Washoe.

To-day They Wed.

Rev. G. H. Greenfield of Winnemucca and Miss Danberg of Carson valley will be married at the home of the parents at noon to-day. Rev. G. H. Jones of this city will officiate.
